Star Hotel Cafe Raided by Police

Large Quantity of Booze is Captured by Officers After Short Search in Rear Room--Place Said to Have Been Conducted by Ed. Rose

Seventeen barrels, said to contain booze, were taken from the cafe of the Star hotel in a raid by the police Tuesday evening. The goods were confiscated and removed to headquarters in a dray. The raid created considerable excitement, a large crowd being drawn to the scene by the activities of the officers. Ed. Rose, to whom the cafe is said to have been leased by Landlord W. Q. Barnes, of the hotel, will probably be called upon to answer to a charge of violation of the Rose law before Mayor Cassingham this morning.

A Record Haul.

It was one of the biggest hauls ever made by the local police. Rose is said to have been running the place wide open for the past several weeks, centennial week having been quite a harvest for him. The raid was made by Lieut. Hankins and Officers Gorman, Fretague and Miller. The beer was found in a rear room.

Officers Installed by D. of A.

At their meeting held last evening in the Jr. O. U. A. M. hall the daughters of America installed the following officers:

Councilor, W. O. Nealy.
Associate Councilor, Sarah E. Parks.
Vice Councilor, Nancy A. Felton.
Associate Vice Councilor, Margaret Richardson.
Secretary, E. S. Felton.
Financial Secretary, Sarah E. Moore.
Treasurer, Jennie Felton.
Inside Sentinel, George Chapman.
Outside Sentinel, B. B. Parks.
Trustees, Nancy Felton and Ella Sybole.
Representative, Ella Sybole.
Alternate Representative, W. O. Nealy.

Virginia Township Teachers

The board of education of Virginia township has elected the following teachers for the ensuing year:

New Moscow, Hazel Taylor.
Willow Brook, Leslie Perkins.
Brush College, Leo Taylor.
Wright's, Plileta Cave.
Chestnut Grove, Mae Haxton.
Howser's, Alva Davis.
Coal Hollow, William Phillips, (grammar), and John Abel, (primary.)

BRIDGES WILL BE PAINTED

The commissioners at their regular meeting, Tuesday, awarded contracts to paint the bridges of the county with the exception of three townships and also for the material to be used in the work.

The contract for furnishing 15 barrels of paint was awarded to George J. Bock & Son and their bid of $1.18 per gallon. Other bidders were: Mt. Vernon Paint & Oil Co., American Paint & Color Co. of Columbus, and Frank T. Markley

Bock & Son were also given the contract to paint the bridges in Bedford, Clark, Mill Creek and Keene townships.

Melvin Waters and John Arnold were given Washington, Jackson, Virginia, Tuscarawas, Franklin and Linton townships.

J. C. Anderson—Jefferson, New Castle and Perry townships.

Charles Norman — Lafayette, Oxford, White Eyes and Crawford townships.

The bid on Tiverton township was too high and no bids were received for Pike and Monroe townships.

Mysterious Arrest Made

A man, whose name could not be learned, was arrested by Officer Miller in front of the Sixth Street theatre Tuesday night. The party was with a woman, who accompanied him to police headquarters. No information would be given out by the police.

BARN BURNS.

Canton, O., July 11.—A barn on the farm of Christian Krabill near this city was struck by lightning last evening and burned to the ground. The season's crops and two horses burned

RAIN PREVENTS BIG ODD FELLOW PARADE

Heavy Rain Storm Does No Damage

Coshocton county was again favored with a general rain that worked wonders with the crops, as well as brought relief from the extreme warm temperature, Tuesday afternoon and evening

The storm was accompanied by considerable electrical display but as far as could be learned last evening, the only damage was to telephone lines in various parts of the county.

THE WEATHER

FOR OHIO—Showers, followed by fair weather Wednesday; Thursday fair with moderate temperature.

J. Pluvius Again Spoils Program of Encampment Tuesday Evening--Session Held in Sixth St. Theatre Followed by Reception and Ball in I.O.O.F. Hall--Officers Elected

Rain again spoiled the program of the Odd Fellows in encampment here and not only was it necessary to confer the degree of Chivalry in the Sixth Street theatre, instead of in the court square as was intended, but the twilight parade upon which the committee in charge had spent so much time had to be abandoned on account of the downpour of rain.

It had been the plan of the committee to make the parade, while not the largest, the most spectacular and beautiful in point of uniform and precision of execution in the history of the city. Black mounts had been secured for the police force of the city and white horses for all the officers of the encampment, and the committee was greatly disappointed at the hostility of the elements.

Receives Highest Honor.

The Grand Decoration of Chivalry, the highest honor that can come to a man in Odd Fellowship was conferred upon Col. L. A Cartright of Youngstown, in the Sixth Street theatre. The impressive ceremony was in charge of Gen. Stocker of Miamisburg and staff, and was carried out in a most splendid manner. The theatre was crowded to capacity and the audience listened attentively throughout the entire service.

Reception and Ball.

Following this, a reception was held in the parlors of the lodge hall where fully five hundred guests were entertained. Refreshments were served.

After the reception the grand ball began. The music was furnished by Wright's orchestra of Columbus and dancing continued until an early hour this morning

Welcomed to City.

The encampment was formally opened Tuesday morning at an open meeting of lodge in their hall, at which the visitors were welcomed to this city by Prosecuting Attorney Geo. D. Klein, who acted in this capacity in the absence of the mayor. The address of welcome was responded to by Grand High Priest Geo M Rewell of Cleveland, who spoke a word of appreciation in behalf of every Odd Fellow in the city for the hearty greeting extended to them

A quartette composed of James Lear, Will Davis, H V. Taylor and E A Dawson, then rendered several selections which were enthusiastically received by the audience. The invocation and benediction were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Hammond.

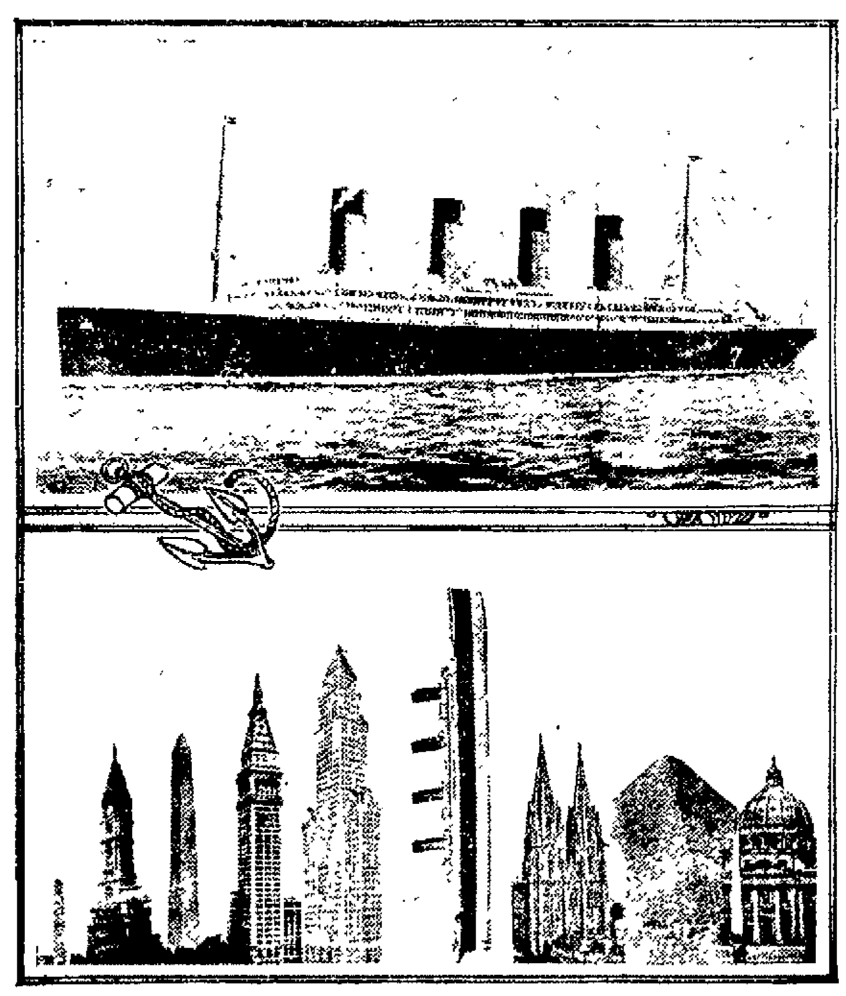

Officers Elected.

At a business session of the Department Council Patriarchs Militant, the following officers for the coming year were elected:

President— Gen A R. Stocker, Miamisburg.
Vice President Col. Perry D Knapp, Toledo.
Secretary Lieut. Col W L Ryan, Dayton.
Treasurer Lieut Col. F. C Garrett, Dayton.

Today the sessions of the Grand Encampment will be resumed, which meetings will not be of a public nature.

Newest "Queen of the Seas" Is Longer Than Tallest Building

THE newest vessel to gain the title of "queen of the seas" is the Olympic, which recently arrived at New York on her first voyage across the Atlantic. She will hold the title only until a larger vessel, now in process of construction, has been finished and started on the ocean ferry. The Olympic is a monster, as the above picture shows. She is 880½ feet long, so long that it became necessary to lengthen her pier so that she could dock in New York. An idea of her great length is obtained by comparing her with various lofty structures, as is done above. At the extreme left is the Bunker Hill monument, and then in order come the Philadelphia city hall, the Washington monument, the Metropolitan building, New York; the projected Woolworth building, New York; the Olympic, the Cologne cathedral, the Great pyramid in Egypt and St Paul's cathedral, London. It will be noticed that the huge liner, if stood on end, would be taller than the highest structure ever raised by man except the Eiffel tower The Woolworth building, on which work was recently started in New York, is to be 750 feet high. The main portion of the structure will be thirty stories, with a tower reaching twenty-five stories higher.

Lightning Bolt Starts Machine

Which Dashes Over Terraces and is Wrecked Against Tree

Valuable Auto, Property of Columbus Physician, Figures in Singular Mishap at Mt. Vernon Hospital--Prompt Action of Chauffeur Saves Lives of Children

A bolt of lightning starting the machine on the spark, a $6,500 Peerless car, belonging to Dr. Sherman Leach, the well known Columbus specialist, dashed down a flight of terraces at the Mt. Vernon City hospital Monday afternoon, ran into a tree and was totally wrecked. The story of the very singular mishap was related to friends in this city Tuesday by Dr. Leach, who was in Coshocton on a professional visit.

Sees Car Start.

Dr. Leach had gone to Mt. Vernon to perform an operation at the hospital and left his auto on the lawn, in charge of the chauffeur. The doctor was standing in a window of the hospital, where he had a view of the car, when suddenly there was a flash of lightning. The next moment, he was surprised to see the car start forward, although the chauffeur was lying on the grass near by.

Avoids the Children.

As the car started towards the edge of the top terrace, the chauffeur leaped to the seat and threw on the emergency brake. He was too late, however, to stop the machine, which dashed wildly over the series of four terraces. The driver gamely stuck to his seat, hoping to save the car from being wrecked when, suddenly he was horrified to see directly in the path of the car, some children, who were at play on the lower terrace. With rare presence of mind he turned the car sharply to one side to avoid the children and collided with a tree.

A Complete Wreck.

When the auto struck the tree, the chauffeur was thrown a complete somersault over the dashboard and alighted on the grass, uninjured. To give one an idea how completely the valuable car was smashed, Dr. Leach stated yesterday that he did not believe he could get a dollar for the wreckage.

RECEIVE 11 BIDS ON CONTRACT

Traynor & Scanlon of Huntington, W. Va., submitted the lowest bid for the construction of the storm sewer system for West Lafayette and will, in all probability be awarded the contract at a special meeting of the village council to be held Thursday evening. Their bid was $15,683.99.

The remaining bids were as follows.

George J. Bock & Son, Coshocton, $17,513.91.
J. B. Scheetz Co., Pittsburg, $17,533.32.
Henderson Bros., Coshocton, $17,133.42
Cantwell Construction Co., Parkersburg, W Va., $18,857 30
W M Brode & Co., Newcomerstown, O., $16,795 10
Houston & Henderson, Logan, O., $15 621 78
Van Meter Construction Co., of Steubenville, O., $16,131 94
John Hall, Coshocton, $16 052.51.
Paul & Kershner, Dayton, O., $20,654.10

In addition to the above, John McCleary of West Lafayette submitted a bid of $558 on open ditch excavation and will probably be given the work The estimate of Engineer Ross Hamilton on the entire contract was $16,500

Sheriff Captures Man Driven Insane by Heat

Sheriff McDonald and Deputy James McDonald accompanied by Floyd Adams in the latter's automobile went to West Carlisle on Tuesday morning to get George Dunlap, of that vicinity, who had gone violently insane. He was brought to Coshocton after he had been tracked for several miles in the woods and placed in the county jail from where he will probably be taken to the Massillon asylum.

Heat Too Much.

It is said that Dunlap has been in the Columbus asylum at two different times, but that he had escaped in both cases, the last time almost sane and he grew continually better so that Dr. Edwards took steps to obtain his discharge. However the heat of last week unbalanced him again and he grew violent.

Tracked Through Woods.

Tuesday morning he started out and wandered through the woods, cutting down small trees as he went and when he reached the Towaca creek valley entered the home of a farmer and badly frightened his wife and two children. The sheriff was then called upon and a posse of farmers tracked him through the woods. He was found under a tree during a high storm, about three miles north of West Carlisle and taken into custody.

Two Cows Killed by Lightning

Two cows belonging to Ed Le Retilley of this city, were found dead on his farm in Jackson township Tuesday morning. The animals had been struck by lightning and from appearances must have been killed during the storm on Friday evening of last week. They were found under a tree which had also been struck and it is thought that they were killed while standing under the shelter of this tree. Both animals were insured with the McConnell & Karr insurance agency

Charles McDonald of Zanesville is in Coshocton on business.

Victim Motor Cycle Mishap to Hospital

Harry Bender, who sustained [illegible] this morning.

Down Stone Steps.

Bender was thrown from the handle bars of Samuel Scherrer's motor cycle, when the latter was unable to make the sharp turn from South Lawn avenue into Walnut street and collided with the curb. He alighted on the sidewalk and fell down the stone steps leading to the Lane barber shop. Scherrer was also thrown but escaped injury.

Rider Arrested.

The victim was unconscious when bystanders carried him from the basement and Dr. L. C. McCurdy was called. It was found that he was suffering from concussion of the brain. Later he was removed to his home on N. Sixth street. Bender is 23 years of age and has a wife and child. Scherrer was arrested on a charge of exceeding the speed limit and when arraigned before Mayor Cassingham, pleaded not guilty. His hearing was set for next Saturday morning.

IN AND OUT OF TOWN

Misses Irene Hamilton and Lulu Lockard spent Sunday the guests of Mrs. Henry Ling of near Keene.

Miss Mae Haxton of Coshocton spent Saturday at the Charles Robinson home on Coshocton Route 5.

Miss Rebecca Adams Summoned by Death

Miss Rebecca Adams, aged 73, died at her home at Orange and South Eighth streets Monday morning at 6:30 o'clock. For some time Miss Adams had been in failing health, and for the past several weeks her condition was such that the members of the family realized that her passing was but a matter of a short time. Yesterday morning, however, Miss Adams seemed more comfortable than usual, but soon after her breakfast she became suddenly worse and expired in a few moments.

Miss Adams was a life-long resident of Coshocton county. The greater part of her life was spent in the vicinity of Keene, but several years ago she came to Coshocton, where with her sisters she has since made her home. Miss Adams was from girlhood a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and she was at all times a faithful and consistent follower of the Christian faith.

One brother and one sister, Jno. M. Adams, and Miss Frances Adams, of this city, and one half-brother, George Adams of Mobile, Ala., and one half sister, Miss Laura Adams of Coshocton, survive. The three sisters, Rebecca, Frances and Laura made their home together.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the late home at 2 o'clock. Dr. J. C. Goodrich, of Grace church, officiating.

The brother, George Adams of Mobile, will arrive tonight to attend the funeral and Roy Adams, a nephew, will arrive from Pittsburg tomorrow.

John Baumgardner is Called to Reward

At 10:30 Monday morning death brought an end to the long and useful life of John Baumgardner, aged 86, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of the vicinity of Warsaw.

Mr. Baumgardner had for a long time been a sufferer from paralysis and infirmities of age and his death came not unexpectedly to the members of his family.

In the years of his activity Mr. Baumgardner was well known throughout the western part of the county; he was a miller by trade and a public spirited citizen always interested in the welfare of his fellowmen.

His wife preceeded him to the grave eleven years ago; six daughters, Mrs. Martha Drake, Mrs. Emma Meggs and Mrs. Susan Coffman all of Warsaw, Mrs. Anderson McClain of Dennison, Mrs. Mary Winray of Des Moines, Iowa and Mrs. Pauline Foster of Nellie, and one son B. F. Baumgardner of Columbus survive.

Mr. Baumgardner has made his home for some time with his daughter Mrs. Coffman who resides in the old homstead but the funeral services will be from the home of Mrs. Drake another daughter in Warsaw, at 1:30 this afternoon. Rev. Barnes of the Methodist church will officiate and interment will take place in Darling Run cemetery.

INSANE WOMAN MAKES HER ESCAPE FROM JAIL

After making her escape from the county jail and leading the officers a sensational chase to her home on North Eleventh street, Sunday night, Mrs. Mary Ellen Gross, wife of C. M. Gross, was adjudged insane by Probate Judge Ashman, Monday morning, and committed to the Massillon asylum. She was taken to that institution by the sheriff and Mrs. McDonald.

Becomes Violent.

Mrs. Gross has been growing weak mentally for some time and Sunday evening, when she became violent, was taken to the county jail. Not wishing to lock the woman in a cell, she was allowed to remain in the parlor of the residence, while members of the sheriff's family kept watch. At about 3 a. m., while Miss Blanche McDonald went to get Mrs. Gross a drink of water, she leaped from an open window and made her way back home.

Found at Home.

Deputy James McDonald took up the chase and finding her at the home on North Eleventh street, took her back to the jail. Monday morning Drs. Marshall and Pomerene conducted a medical examination and the woman was adjudged insane.

Total	$21,085.00

"Which shows an increase of $13,708.40 over expenditures necessary to maintain and operate our steam pumpng station.

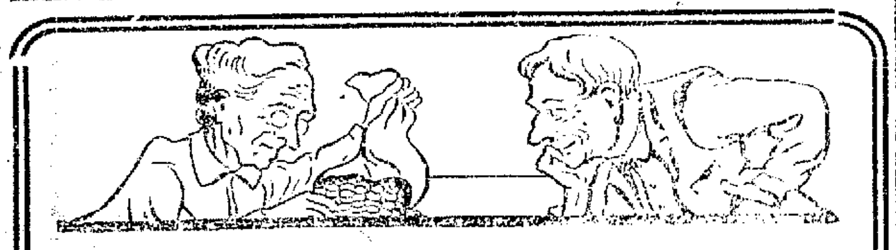

"This increase alone is enough to pay for a new steam pump in two years. It represents the increase due to the installation of the single electrically driven pump now under consideration, since this proposed pump is of sufficient capacity to do all of the city pumping.

"In estimating the amount of power expended in pumping water at our pumping station, I have assumed that 5 pounds of coal will produce one indicated horsepower per hour. This is a higher figure than any given by the authorities. If I had used a lower figure, the result of my calculations would have been still more unfavorable to the Light & Heating Co. My frequent use of the word approximately is due to a lack of time to carry multiplications and divisions into decimals and fractions.

"Quoting from the catalogue of a well known manufacturer of electrically driven centrifugal pumps, 'The maximum height of suction lift with which we are prepared to guarantee satisfactory working of turbine pumps is 18 feet, but this limit should not be adopted except in cases where it is absolutely impossible to work with a lower suction lift. We therefore advise that under ordinary conditions the suction lift should not be greater than 12 feet.'

"The flooding of an electrical motor puts it out of commission instantly and it often remains out of commission for several weeks after once having been flooded.

"Our old steam pumps have pumped merrily away more than once while under water. With a direct connected electrically driven centrifugal pump installed from 12 to 18 feet above low water mark in our wells, what would happen if the basement of the pumping station should flood as it usually does when the river rises? Ask our water works superintendent and city engineer?"

SAGE AND SULPHUR

Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss
COUNTY OF MONROE } ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

LEADERS OF FACTIONS.

Norris Alleges Hilles Is Promoting a "Political News Bureau."

CHARLES D. HILLES

G. W. NORRIS

HILLES AND NORRIS ROW

Norris Claims Hilles Inspired False Reports Regarding LaFollette.

Washington, July 11. Official Washington is visibly disturbed over the charges of Congressman Norris of Nebraska against Charles D. Hilles, secretary to President Taft. Norris alleges that Hilles is promoting a "political news bureau," which promotes the publication of news favorable to certain politicians and supplies news advantageous to others. Norris claims in particular that Hilles has inspired "false reports" regarding the presidential candidacy of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin. Norris is the leader of the Republican insurgents in the lower house of congress and favors LaFollette as against Taft for president in 1912. Mr. Hilles is preparing a statement in answer to Norris.

HAAS LOAN LAW WILL BE TESTED

Columbus, O., July 11. Through a suit started in common pleas court by P. F. Cain, a stockholder in the Peoples' Loan and Salary company, the constitutionality of the Haas salary loan bill, recently passed by the legislature, is brought into question. The Haas law licenses the loaning of money, but fixes a maximum rate of interest. A restraining order was issued enjoining the enforcement of the law and an early date will be fixed for the final hearing of the case. Cain furnished heavy bond.

Harriman's Son-in-Law Hurt.

New York, July 11. In a polo game at the Rockaway Hunting club C. C. Rumsey was hurt in a collision with Malcolm Stevenson, and in an unconscious condition when assisted from the field. They were both on the same team. Mr. Rumsey is the husband of Miss Mary Harriman, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman. That Mr. Rumsey escaped more serious injury is considered remarkable, as his pony fell partly upon his body.

BOSTON WOOL.

Boston, July 11. The combination of intense heat, a holiday, and uncertainty over prospective tariff action, made the past week a dull one in the local wool market. Offerings of wool on dealers in the west are being held at practically ten per cent below the high point of three weeks ago and operations have been restricted. The market here has been small, prices including 23 cents for Ohio fine unwashed fleeces, 24c for Ohio quarter blood, and 21c for half-blood Montana.

Charles McMillen who has been seriously ill at his home near New Guilford is improving.

Hans Wagner Still Continues to Lead National League Batsmen.

Pittsburg, July 11.—Hans Wagner is easily maintaining his position at the top of the list of National league batsmen. The Flying Dutchman's mark now is .363, the only man ahead of him being Pitcher Jack Ferry of the Pirates, who has hit at a .375 clip in twelve games. Wagner has been in seventy-one battles and has made ninety-five hits and scored forty-eight runs. Sixteen of his bingles were doubles, eleven were triples and five home runs and made nine sacrifice hits.

Train Plunges Over Viaduct

Many Killed and Injured In Wreck of Colonial Express.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 11.—Rushing eastward, 40 miles an hour, the Colonial express on the New Haven railroad plunged over a 30-foot viaduct on the outskirts of this city, killing between 12 and 15 persons and injuring 55, of whom 20 will probably die.

The wreck is said to have been caused by the engine swaying as it shot past a cross-over and striking the side of the viaduct. Of the seven coaches on the train only two kept the track. The engine and five cars toppled over into the street.

The wreckage caught fire almost immediately and the city fire department had to be called to prevent many of the passengers being roasted to death in the wreckage. The train, made up of an engine, baggage car, two day coaches and five sleepers was more than an hour behind time and was running at high speed through the suburbs. As the engine reached the viaduct at State street and Fairfield avenue, in West Bridgeport, it swayed far over and the front of it struck the coping of the viaduct.

Pullmans Saved.

The impact threw the engine from the rails and it crashed over into the street, carrying with it all the cars except two Pullmans.

The two day coaches were torn to pieces and most of the dead were later found in these cars. The heavy Pullmans piled up on the wreckage, the whole forming an indestructable mass of turn and twisted wood, iron and steel which made the task of removing the dead and injured most difficult.

Passengers in the two cars which remained on the track started the work of rescue immediately, and they were aided by the police and fire departments of this city.

It was necessary to make a hole in the roof of the topmost cars to get at the injured and dead below.

TWO COME TO EARTH

Five Balloons Which Left Kansas City Still In the Air.

Kansas City, July 11.—With the balloons Kansas City and New York down in Iowa, five other 80,000 cubic foot aerostats are sailing in a variable northwestern wind at about the 300-mile stage from Kansas City.

The Kansas City and the New York were forced to the ground in thunderstorms. The Kansas City landed near Lineville, Ia., and the New York near Freeport, Ia. These towns are about 200 miles from Kansas City.

Kills Wife and Escapes.

Akron, O., July 11. Antonio Varrechia, employed at the Goodrich rubber plant shot and killed his wife at their home. He then made his escape.

COMMISSIONER TO TAKE ACTION

Mystery of the Missing Letters In the Stokes Case Partially Unraveled.

New York, July 11.—The mystery of the missing letters in the Stokes shooting case has been partially unraveled. Police Commissioner Waldo has learned so much about the theft of the nine letters written by W. E. D. Stokes and tied with faded pink ribbon by Ethel Conrad and Lillian Graham, the shooting girls, that he expects to take action in the case before 24 hours. As a first step, five subordinates in the police department will be suspended. Although their identities are known to rumor only, it is believed that three are detectives, one a uniformed policeman and one a high officer in the department.

Commissioner Waldo will then present the evidence he has against these men and three other men, who are described as "private citizens interested in the case," to the district attorney. He will ask Assistant District Attorney Whitman to proceed under the state law, which makes the theft or suppression of evidence of this sort a misdemeanor.

CRACK SAFE AT CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., July 11. Two thousand dollars in cash and checks were obtained by yeggmen who cracked the safe of the Arnold Creamery company. Entrance to the office was gained by a duplicate key to the rear door.

BLOWS FOLLOW BITTER WORDS

Socialists Start Trouble In Chamber of Deputies.

Paris, July 11. Paris was startled by the cries of the news venders in the streets that war had been declared. With the Moroccan affair in mind the crowds rushed to buy the extras, only to find that the only war that had broken out was in the chamber of deputies. There the Socialists, enraged by the lukewarm attitude of the ministry towards the discharged railway employes, had threatened to block the passage of the budget, which the chamber was anxious to get out of the way before July 14, which is the date set for a recess. It was the desire to devote every moment of the intervening time to the discussion of the budget, but the Socialists interfered with a motion calling for the reinstatement of the men discharged by the railways.

There was an exchange of bitter words and insults were hurled right and left. Much of the language was unprintable, and this led to blows. In the midst of the tumult, Brisson put on his hat and declared the session suspended. When it was resumed the government was sustained by a vote of 456 to 86.

Roy Adams of Pittsburg arrived in Coshocton yesterday. He is here to attend the funeral of his aunt, Miss Rebecca Adams.

HOSTILE TO THE ENGLISH

International Steel Congress Regarded With Suspicion In Great Britain.

London, July 11.—The Times displays conspicuously an anonymous statement to the effect that the new international steel association is regarded with suspicion in Great Britain. It is asserted that the owners of big steel plants in the United States stand to gain by the formation of the association, whose ultimate object, however the intention may be veiled, would assuredly be to control both production and prices. Herein, it is added, is one explanation of why American interests are playing the leading part. The movement, it is believed here in many quarters, is hostile to the English interests. The general opinion in the English iron trade is that any attempt at international control of the steel output and prices is destined to fail.

Physical Education Congress.

Copenhagen, July 11. The international congress of physical education which has been holding sessions at Odense has agreed to establish an international bureau of physical education at Brussels, and elected Mr. Brocks of Boston as the American representative. The next congress will be held in Paris in 1913.

Forecasters Predict Relief

Local Thunderstorms Fail to Bring Cooler Weather.

Washington, July 11.—With the government's forecasters clinging to their oft-repeated prediction, "Cooler tomorrow," but weather continues to prevail throughout New England and the middle Atlantic and central west states. Local thunder showers all over the section east of the Mississippi river failed to bring down the temperatures.

The bureau insists that the hot wave will be effectually broken by Thursday.

Boston was the hottest place in the United States today.

THE HEAT WAVE.

Many Cities Report Ice Famine and Much Suffering In Consequence.

Chicago, July 11.—Chicago and vicinity are in for three days more of baking and parboiling, according to local weather forecasters.

Twenty-two deaths of adults were recorded and 14 babies died directly from heat causes.

The threatened ice famine has materialized and warnings were issued to all consumers to use the utmost economy.

Deliveries are eight to ten hours late and only half supplies can be had. Restaurants and hotels suffered considerable loss in perishable foodstuffs as a result.

Ice companies and health officials notified the public that extravagance would reduce the city to the plight of Hartford City, Ind., where the last 150 pounds of ice was distributed among the sick.

Dispatches say Pittsburg, New York, Philadelphia and other cities are on the verge of ice and milk famines.

Dispatches from the east show that the hot wave has again enveloped all of that district.

Wyoming reports frost, and all the Rocky mountain region is cool.

Alleged Shortage $20,000

Cincinnati, O., July 11.—Confirmation was obtained of a report that alleged discrepancies estimated to be from $15,000 to $20,000 exist in the accounts of the Home for Incurables of Cincinnati. A well known club woman is treasurer of the institution. She is under the care of physicians, who state that she is too ill to be questioned on business affairs. John Weldo Peck, attorney for the home, said that he did not think any one had embezzled or intended to embezzle a single penny.

James Swihart returned to Warren, O., after a brief visit at the home of his parents, on South Second street.

UNSHAKEN BY DEFEAT

Opponents of Reciprocity Pact More Determined Than Ever.

Washington, July 11. With a dozen overwhelming defeats scored against them the opponents of the Canadian reciprocity pact in the United States senate expressed themselves more determined than ever to war for amendments to the treaty and to delay the final vote as long as possible.

Senator Bristow of Kansas, despite the heavy votes piled up against all amendments, will offer one on the sugar schedule and defend it at length. Senator LaFollette will do the same for wool.

When their amendments are disposed of the vote will come on the bill itself, and this vote, in the opinion of Senator Penrose, will not be later than Aug. 5, and may very well come before that date.

The amendments disposed of covered a wide range of subjects. Those offered by Mr. Simmons were aimed at protection for American lumber, while those of Mr. Cummins, including also the lumber schedule, were in general aimed at "compensating" the farmer for the protection he is supposed to lose through reciprocity by taking off the tax on manufactured products, clothing, farm implements and machinery, which the farmer buys.

LAND AT CAPITAL

Aviator Atwood and Hamilton Finish Great Flight.

Washington, July 11. Tired and hungry, but otherwise show no ill effects of their trip from Sheepshead Bay, Harry N. Atwood and Charles K. Hamilton alighted from their aeroplane on the field of the army aviation school at College Park, Md., near this city.

They had covered about 90 miles at an average speed of 60 miles. Some time was lost by following the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad, which were not taken by those of the Baltimore & Ohio. The flight was devoid of mishap, and except for being thoroughly fatigued, the aviators would have continued on to this city in the machine.

This was their last lap of a record-breaking cross-land flight from Boston to the national capital.

Operator Fred Farley, who has been working at the local Western Union office, has gone to Columbus.

Union Sunday School Picnic at McGuire's

The Canal Lewisville Methodist Sunday school has extended an invitation to several of the schools in that vicinity asking them to join in a union Sunday school picnic to be held at McGuire's grove on Saturday, August 5.

The Rev. Vernon Wade Wagner of Millersburg has been secured to make an address on this occasion on the subject of "Sunday School Evangelism:" Miss Alice Finlay has consented to talk concerning her work in the mission field of Japan: other talks will be made by pastors and Sunday school superintendents. There will be a program of music by the various schools.

Sixteen schools in that section of the county have been invited by the Lewisville school to participate in the day's pleasure. The picnic will be an all-day affair and the guests are to bring baskets with sufficient "good things" for both dinner and supper. The program will begin at 10 a. m. In addition to the schools receiving invitations any and all who care to come will be welcome.

Sick List.

A. A. Walbridge, who was taken seriously ill at an early hour yesterday morning at his home on East Walnut St., was considerably improved last evening.

DAILY FASHION TALKS

BY MAY MANTON

A DAINTY FROCK OF LAWN AND EMBROIDERY.

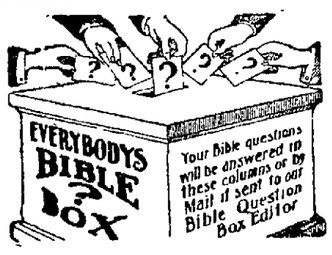

EYELET embroidery is being much used for children's dresses as well as for the gowns of their mothers, and this frock shows it used in the most effective manner. The yoke with short sleeves and panel are all cut in one, and made from the embroidery are exceedingly effective. But this is a season of variety and the little dress can be made in a number of ways. One material used throughout with the edges of the yoke and panel scalloped makes a charming effect. Hand embroidery always means distinction and little sprays of flowers worked on the panel and yoke would be charming. In addition to its other advantages, the dress is simple and easily made. The full skirt portion can be simply gathered or shirred in successive rows, as liked, and the neck can be made just as illustrated or with a yoke and collar, while the sleeves can be gathered into bands or left plain. All the materials that are used for children's dresses and that are thin enough to be gathered and shirred are appropriate, with trimming to suit the special need.

7001 Child's Empire Dress, 2, 4 and 6 years.

For the 4 year size the yoke with panel will require 1⅜ yards of material 18 inches wide; for the full portions of the dress will be needed 2 yards 27, 1¼ yards 36 or 44 inches wide, with 4½ yards of banding for the trimming.

A May Manton pattern, No. 7001, is cut in sizes for children of 2, 4 and 6 years of age, and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

Q.—What did Jesus mean when he said, "In my Father's house are many mansions"?

Answer.—In the larger sense, the Universe is God's home or house, and this earth is His footstool. We know not how many angelic orders there are, but the Scriptures intimate that there are spirit beings of various grades, of different nature, each perfect, but differing one from the other. The Divine Plan, in connection with their creation, made full arrangement for their comfort and happiness to all eternity. Similarly, when God created man He provided for his welfare to all eternity, giving him an earthly home, mansion, or apartment in the great House. Our Lord, in calling His Church, invited them to become God's "New Creation." He promised those who would become His footstep followers, bearing their cross after Him, that eventually they should be with Him, sharing His glory on the heavenly plane. They should be like unto the angels, but higher than the angels—His Bride. There is no place yet for this "New Creation," except in the Father's purpose, or plan, in which provision for the Church, as the Bride of Christ, had already been made. But it needed to be prepared for them, and they needed to be prepared for it. This preparation has gone on from the time our Lord said, "I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also" (John xiv. 2, 3).

Ferrell-Bucklew Nuptials

The marriage of Miss Lura Bucklew, daughter of Mrs. Mary Bucklew of this city, and Mr. Charles M. Ferrell of Kansas City will be of interest to the bride's many Coshocton friends.

The wedding was solemnized in Kansas City, Mo., last Thursday and Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell have gone to housekeeping in apartments in that city, their future home.

Mr. Ferrell is the manager of the Kansas City library bureau and he is prominent in many important business enterprises of his home city. His bride is well known throughout the country, as well as here at home, for her artistic work in vaudeville; she is a young woman of unusual ability and charm and she has, during the past few years, won well merited success in her chosen work.

Later in the summer Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell will take an eastern trip and will stop for a brief visit with Mrs. Ferell's mother here at that time.

What is Whiskey

Congressman Richardson Brings Up the Question Again.

Washington, July 11.—"What is whisky?" The old problem between the rectifiers and the so-called "straight whisky" men is again to be offered for solution in congress. Ever since the enactment of the pure food law five years ago the labelling of whisky has been in controversy. Representative William Richardson of Alabama announced that he will insist upon amendments to the pure food and drugs act relating to the labelling of whisky in conformity to the opinion of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley of the bureau of chemistry of the agricultural department.

Representative Richardson says that the whisky labelling provision of the act virtually has been nullified by the president and might as well not be on the statute books. "The decision of the president on the whisky labelling provision" he said, "was simply that anything you choose to call whisky is whisky. In my judgment, the act of congress warranted the Roosevelt interpretation that whisky should be marked, 'straight,' 'compound,' 'imitation,' or 'blend.'"

ETHEL BARRYMORE NAMES TWO WOMEN

Los Angeles, July 11. Two women are to be named in Ethel Barrymore's suit for divorce, according to a statement emanating from the same source through which news of her intention to sue reached the public. Miss Barrymore has gone to Fresno, Cal., leaving Los Angeles to avoid the newspaper men, who persisted in attempting to get a statement from her regarding the charges she is to make against her husband, Russel Griswold Colt.

MEXICO HAS LABOR TROUBLE

Mining Man Claims Industry Threatened With Serious Setback.

New Orleans, July 11. Mexican labor troubles having spread to all parts of the republic, the mining industry in Mexico is threatened with a serious setback and the Mahimi camp, located in the state of Durango, has already been forced to practically close down, according to George Ross, a prominent mining man of the Compania Minera de Penoles, operating at Mahimi. "The situation is becoming desperate," said Ross "and the ataens to extend to every important camp in the republic. At the present price of bar silver there is little money to be made in mining in Mexico, and a very large amount of capital is necessary to install such modern machinery as will make it possible to mine at small cost of production. With silver and copper so cheap and the markets of the world so badly overstocked, to pay increased wages to miners in Mexico is almost suicidal to the companies operating there.

Ohio State Bar Meeting.

Sandusky, O., July 11.—The Ohio State Bar association opened its annual convention at Cedar Point. The chief speaker this year will be Representative Samuel A. McCall of Massachusetts, father of President's Taft's reciprocity bill.

Couple is Wedded in Canton

Miss Mattie Gammell of this city and Carl Buxton a former Coshocton County boy, now employed in Canton, were united in marriage in that place on Monday afternoon. The wedding comes as a surprise to the Coshocton friends on the two young people. They will make their home in Canton.

Quarterly Conference

The fourth quarterly conference of the Roscoe and Canal Lewisville charge will be held in Roscoe on Friday afternoon, July 14, at 2 p. m. Communion service will be held at Roscoe on Sunday, July 16.

Marshall Named for President

Indiana Governor Gets Two Tomatoes With His Name Grown In Skin.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11. Harvey M. Cook of Avondale, Pa., has nominated Governor Marshall for the presidency next year by means of two tomatoes which have been sent to the governor. That such a nomination is effective, Mr. Cook asserts, is proved by the fact that he nominated Presidents Taft and Roosevelt in a similar manner. Each tomato bore on its ruddy surface the inscription "Thomas R. Marshall, 1912."

The manner of its coming there was obvious. The grower had stitched some sort of fibre to the skins of the fruit while it was green and the subsequent growth had made the letters appear except for the stitches as a part of the skin. In a letter to the governor Cook said he was the originator of the process by which tomatoes may be made to make presidents. All he asked in return, he said, was the governor's autograph.

STREET CAVES IN FOR 75 FEET

Budapest, July 11.—As a result of the earthquake part of Szondy street has caved in, leaving a yawning hole 70 feet long and 75 feet deep. This has been flooded by water mains that were broken by the shock of the quake and many horses were drowned. Many drivers were seriously injured.

Want Penny Postal Rate

Kingston, Jamaica, July 11. The local chamber of commerce adopted resolutions urging the home government to enter into negotiations with Washington for the purpose of securing the penny postal rate between this island and the Panama canal zone. The hope is expressed that a similar rate will be made between here and the United States within a short time.

Will Go Abroad.

Miss Mae Strauss daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Strauss of Cambridge road, will leave Thursday of next week for New York City, where she will take passage on the Red Star liner "Kronland" for Antwerp, Belgium. Miss Strauss expects to spend eighteen months or two years abroad. She will visit relatives in Germany and Belgium and will travel extensively before returning to the United States.

Leaves for the West.

Charles Mulligan left last evening for Cody, Wyo., where he will visit Judge and Mrs. R. L. Donley. Mr. Mulligan will probably secure a position and remain in the west indefinitely. He is one of the graduates of C. H. S. 1911, and the good wishes of his Coshocton friends will follow him westward.

At Death's Door.

John Ammon of Canal Lewisville, who has been seriously ill for some time past, remains in a critical condition and his death is almost hourly expected.

Harvey Grant of Coshocton spent yesterday in Conesville on business.

MOROCCAN CONTROVERSY

Frequent Outbursts Against Germany's Tactics Heard In Paris

Paris, July 11. The French and German governments are dangerously near an open break regarding the situation in Morocco. France is indignant at Germany's attempt to secure territory in the north African country. She claims that no other nations but France and Spain have right to Moroccan territory. President Fallieres of France and Emperor William have authorized diplomatic representatives to confer with Spanish and French agents in regard to the disposal of the disputed territory. Frequent outbursts against Germany's tactics are heard throughout Paris.

GRAFT

When graft breaks into the public service efficiency walks out. It is hard for any government, municipal, state or national, to harbor graft and keep it a secret. Like all other crime it will eventually out.

Russia had larger forces, a bigger war chest, more battleships, more experience in the field and yet she made a miserable showing against little Japan. Graft was the sole cause of the Russian discrepancy. That great power was defeated in St Petersburg, not in Manchuria.

The same thing occurred in Mexico. There were 15,000 supposedly well drilled troops in northern Mexico, all regulars, yet they made a poor showing against the ragged, undisciplined, poorly armed insurgents. The rebels outmanuvered the regulars and whipped them at every point.

The reason? Because the powder wouldn't burn. The shells wouldn't fit the guns. The money appropriated for transportation and provisions and other supplies was stolen. The reason. It can be stated in a word—GRAFT.

Graft and efficiency cannot [illegible] side by side. When any man in public office thinks first of his own private purse and last of his duty to the public that man is going to get in bad sooner or later and in the meanwhile the public will suffer.

People of this [illegible] should learn this lesson. For American municipalities are afflicted with the poorest government in the world. That is only another way of saying there is more graft in city government in America than anywhere else in the civilized world.

It is not [illegible] that the initiative and referendum and short ballot [illegible] recall [illegible] non-partisan judiciary would help clean up our cities. [illegible] of these reforms would in [illegible] lessen the power of the political boss and machines and in the same measure increase the [illegible] of the average citizen in municipal politics and progress. They [illegible] cut out GRAFT and that is the great need to-day in our municipal government.

AGE OF PRESIDENTS

When the women of the United States have obtained the right of suffrage equally with men and begin to aspire to the presidency they will have to find [illegible] which according to tradition is extremely distasteful to the gentler sex. Eight of the twelve presidents in the last 64 years have been between 50 and 56 years old when inaugurated. Three were between 47 and 60 and the twelfth, Roosevelt, was elected to the presidency when 46 years old.

In the past 64 years, or more than half the Republic's life, no president has been inaugurated who was over 56 years of age. Washington was 57 when he went into office and at that age three more Presidents were inaugurated, no other age being so well represented in all the long list. Five were older than [illegible] younger than 57. Counting only his inauguration [illegible] not as a succeeding president, Roosevelt and Grant were [illegible] 46 and the babies when taking the [illegible] as the people's choice.

to the churches and collect the money, but you never hear a word from them regarding the other corporation, The American Issue Publishing Co., but nevertheless this Issue Publishing Co. owns as above stated. Was the reason for non-endorsement because the head officers are self appointed year after year because they own the small amount of stock $1,000 that was sold? Was it because the maps and charts published by The Anti-saloon league and referred to by the General Presbytery shows Coshocton County Licking and a large number of other counties in this state white as snow, when hundreds of car loads of intoxicants are being shipped into these counties legally not saying anything about the number of car loads that are shipped illegally? Was it because these self-appointed officers have become immensely wealthy since they have handled the church's money? Did the Presbytery refuse to endorse The Anti-saloon league because the churches have no say as to its management while in the past the church has been relieved of its tens of thousands of dollars, yea its hundreds of thousands of dollars? If the churches of Coshocton County on next field day should give these representatives of The Anti-saloon league $1,000, will the churches have any authority over the appropriating of it?

The same in all counties. Why is it regardless of what a man gives he can not become a member of The Anti-saloon league, or be represented directly or indirectly in this organization? Churches and other organizations allow their supporters to be represented either directly or indirectly. Regardless of how much you support the Anti-saloon league would the American Issue Publishing Co. which has the money, presume to know you? Does this non-endorsement prove that this large number of church representatives can be true temperance men and not be in sympathy with The Anti-saloon league. The writer is informed the above are true statements, if not true please correct.

Horned Hercules Beetle.

The island of Dominica is the home and natural habitat of the hercules beetle (Dynastes hercules), the very largest known species of the coleoptera or beetle family. Full grown specimens of this gigantic representative of the hard winged bug family average six inches in length from the tip of their pincers to the termination of the wing covers. It has a long black horn growing out of a head which is even darker than the horn itself. On its lower surface the horn is covered with a thick setting of gold colored bristles, which the entomologists say are used by the insect in capturing its prey. Another and shorter but more powerful horn grows out from beneath, the two forming a powerful pair of pincers. The creature has six powerful legs, each armed with claws. The elytra or wing covers are of a dapple gray color and the underparts of the body black. Taken all together, it is a formidable creature, with strength sufficient to catch and hold a bird of the size of the English sparrow.

Back of Bad Luck.

Heaven sends us our good luck; we make our bad. A young contractor, careful, doing good work, always on his job, climbed a bit in the course of ten years and, with his prosperity, had a comfortable, happy family. There came a chance for some building much bigger than he had ever done. He wanted it. He wanted it so much that he bid way down—too far down, as he came to realize after he got the award. So he went on a hunt for subcontractors who, wanting business desperately, like him, would take desperate chances, like him, and he found them. He sublet excavation, masonry, carpentry, everything he could, farming it all out in dozens of different lots. But there was a stern architect, with an eagle eye and a heart cold for everything but his duty, and he began to reject work, piece after piece. Contractor all broke up: the fruits of ten years blown away upon the winds.—New York Press.

A Famous Vine.

In the Cumberland [illegible] portion of the royal gardens at Versailles there is a vine, known all over England as the Cumberland Lodge vine, which is a shoot of a still older vine which grows at Hampton Court, but the shoot has far outdistanced its parent in dimensions and productiveness. In England grapes are generally grown under glass, and the Cumberland Lodge vine has a great glass structure, 120 feet long by 20 wide, all to itself. Growing with astonishing luxuriance, the vine spreads itself over a roof area of 2,400 square feet and bears annually a crop of approximately a thousand large bunches of the finest flavored grapes. These grapes are frequently found on the royal table, and the subject who is presented with a basket of them considers himself highly favored. The shoot from which the great vine has grown was planted in 1775.

Cliff of Natural Glass.

A cliff of natural glass can be seen in Yellowstone park. It is half a mile long and from 150 to 200 feet high, the material of which it consists being as good glass as that artificially manufactured. The dense glass which forms the base is from seventy five to a hundred feet thick, while the upper portion, having suffered and survived many ages of wind and rain, has naturally worn much thinner. Of course the color of the cliff is not that of natural glass—transparent and white—but is mostly black and in some places mottled and streaked with brownish red and shades of olive green and brown.

Gold Lace and Ermine Being Prepared For Coronation Robes

Photos by American Press Association, 1911.

REAL gold threads were used in weaving the lace for King George's coronation robe. The process was quite slow, ten inches of the lace being the average daily output of a skilled weaver. Preparations for the coronation were begun many months ago, and the weaving of the gold lace and the sewing of the ermine, both of which tasks are shown in the pictures above, were only a small portion of the work that was done. Historic old Westminster abbey was materially changed, additional seats and galleries being constructed, and an addition was built to accommodate those entitled by official rank to view the ceremony. England does not have a coronation very often, and when the chance does come for lavish display it is not allowed to pass unnoticed.

Curtiss Machine Favored

Captain Chambers Says It is the Coming Machine For the Navy.

Washington, July 11.—Captain W. I. Chambers, in charge of the hydro aeronautic work for the navy, had this to say:

The hydro-aeroplane is the coming machine, so far as the navy is concerned, in fact it has already come. The navy machine which was built by Glenn Curtiss has had several tryouts and has proven its worth.

Captain Chambers stated that the most thrilling and novel feature of his day of hydro-aeroplaning was when about to miss his train for New York Lieutenant Ellyson told him to hop aboard and he would set him down at the station several miles away in ample time. This he did, the landing being made at the station most successfully.

Excluded.

"WHERE ROLLS the OREGON"

Cape Horn, 2500 Feet High

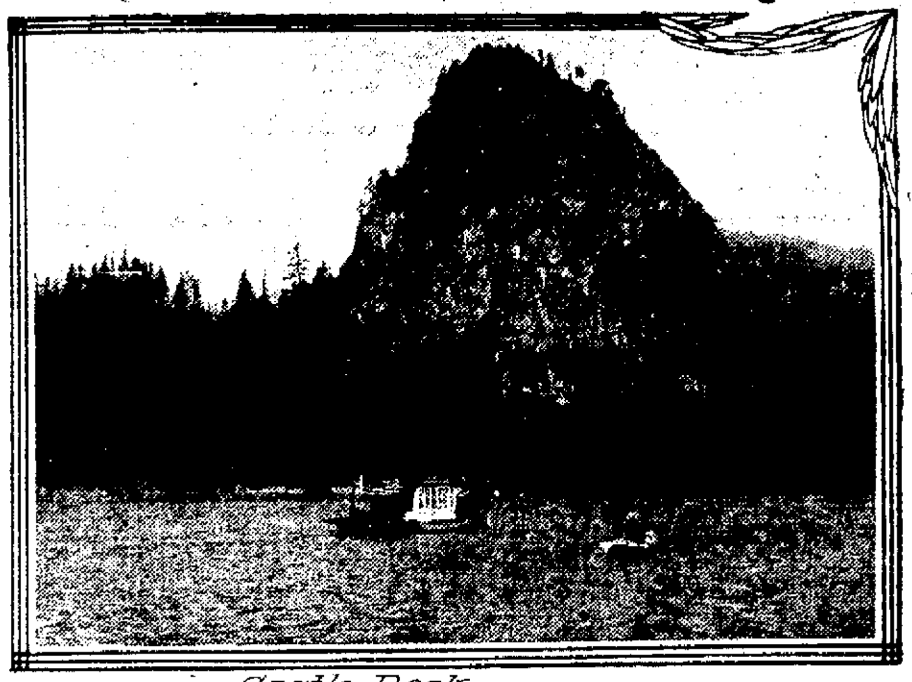

Cape Disappointment Lighthouse at Mouth of Columbia

The Needles

Multnomah Falls said to be the Most Beautiful on the Continent

Castle Rock

A MOVEMENT is on foot to improve the Columbia river above the Dalles and in this way open a long stretch of the Upper Columbia and Snake rivers to navigation. If this is accomplished it will be an important link in the great scheme of inland waterways. Upon this arm of the sea have floated the ships that were with Dewey at Manila and with Sampson at Santiago. The commerce of the world enters its waters. Cargoes of tea, lumber, flour and wheat pass over it and its foreign trade averages twelve million dollars a year.

The Columbia is the only fresh-water harbor on the Northwest coast of our states. With its tributaries it drains a region larger than the combined areas of New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. More than this, it is the scenic wonder of the Northwest. Its gorge is stupendous and its mighty current puts to shame even the Mississippi, to which in size it is a close second.

Though this mighty river is a thriving rival of the railroads its history calls to every traveler on its waters. People this stream with Juan de Fuca, Bering, Gray and a long roll of Spanish adventurers and the Indians that preceded them, and every headland will speak of thrilling incidents. It was in 1805 that travel-stained and weary Lewis and Clark, those doughty soldiers, reached the mouth of the Columbia after traveling 4,000 miles from their starting point. They had crossed the Rockies and traveled along the Missouri. After reaching the Columbia, they passed the winter in the camp on the Oregon side at a place they called Fort Clatsop after a neighboring tribe of Indians. Captain Gray had already entered the river's mouth and gave it the name of his noble ship, but it remained for Lewis and Clark to influence the United States to follow up the claim based on Gray's discovery and to hold the country west of the Rockies and south of the 49th parallel.

One other name this mighty stream has borne—and this is "the Oregon." Its origin is shrouded in mystery—one of the many that envelope this stream—but it is known that Carver used the word in describing a river which he said the Indians told him flowed to the West and was so named. Jefferson used the word Oregon in his instructions to Lewis and Clark, but it was really Bryant's "Thanatopsis," that brought the name "Oregon" into notice. Columbia or Oregon, it presents many phases of wild nature. The usual trip for sight-seers is to the coast where is the old fur trading post, Astoria, and up the river to the Dalles, but there is a delightful stretch in Canada where the river winds between the foothills of the Rockies and the Selkirks. In one place it widens into one of its mother lakes, Lake Windemere. Just below are salmon spawning grounds where twenty years ago the Kootenay Indians used to spear many a thousand fish in one night, but this has ceased since the salmon industry has been carried on so vigorously near its mouth. Another fascinating stretch of the Upper Columbia is where it widens into Arrow Lakes, here the scenery reminds one of the Scotch lakes.

The historian will wish to take a boat to Astoria and follow the course made memorable by Lewis and Clark and agents of John Jacob Astor. This part of the river, though not as picturesque as the Upper Columbia, teems with history. At its mouth the river is seven miles wide and its tide is so great it can be felt one hundred and fifty miles. There are many reminders of a hundred years ago—among them Tongue's Point, Chinook Point, Gray's Bay and Astoria. The view from the lighthouse at Cape Disappointment is superb. In the distance are the government jetties, and the lightship far out to sea, while the waters tumble over the bar at the mouth in a series of eddies and whirlpools.

Fort Columbia, at the river's mouth, is equipped with the newest of heavy marine ordnance and a short distance away is Fort Clatsop where Lewis and Clark camped. When they left, feeling the uncertainty of returning East alive, they left notices with the Indians and in various places describing their journey and what they had seen. It is a curious fact that one of these in after years reached Philadelphia by way of China. At this end, too, the river is not alone associated with Lewis and Clark. At old Fort Vancouver, Grant, Sheridan and other army officers were stationed. Grant was there in 1852 and Sheridan commanded the fort in 1856 and took part in two Indian uprisings.

Just as the Columbia near its mouth is associated with history, every one agrees that the scenery of the Upper Columbia cannot be duplicated even by the palisades of the Hudson or Mississippi. A succession of surprises continues for one hundred and seventy-five miles to the Dalles. It is beyond this that most of the improvements will be made and that are considered necessary, for, just as this great river in 1805 was a waterway for savages, so today it is important for civilized man. The canoes of the Indian have vanished and steamboats have taken their place. At the entrance to the Gorge one catches a first glimpse of the titanic forms that border on each side of the river.

It is also apparent why the Cascade Mountains are so named. Down the rocky sides of the huge balastic projections that stand up sheer from the stream are numerous beautiful little falls. They pour from every crevice, often from the mountain tops and in one place at least twelve of these cascades with their foaming spray can be seen glistening like snow wreaths. Some send down tiny threads of foam, others are beauties hidden in evergreen nooks, and still others spread over broad ledges like veils. The most beautiful of these is Multnomah Falls, 800 feet high, a cascade in two drops, long, filmy and falling with wonderful grace and gentleness. Other noted falls are Bridal Veil, Latourelle, Horse Tail and Oneonta.

Cape Horn is the most prominent projection on the Columbia banks. It consists of pillars of 500 to 2,000 feet high. The steamer passes close to this rock and by its side looks diminutive. Further on is Castle Rock, and immediately following is the odd Bridge of the Gods. From abutments on the mountain sides one can understand that the Indians may have some foundation for their story that there once existed a natural bridge which spanned the river. The Indians say they were able to cross the stream dryshod and account for the disappearance of the bridge in various ways. One legend tells that a dusky maiden on the Oregon side was stolen by her enemies on the other side of the river. When her friends pursued, the Indian tried to escape across the bridge and in revenge the gods let the bridge fall. This is but one of several fanciful tales. Scientists think that there may have been an uplift across the stream, which if composed of lava, would in the process of time, be so eaten away that the water would run through and thus make a natural bridge. Nearby this are the queer submerged trees that were in the water when Lewis and Clark saw the stream. They are evidently submerged forests, stand in their natural position and are twenty to thirty five feet high. They are supposed to be caused by landslides from the mountains damming the river.

That some upheaval took place is evidenced by the Cascades, which are now passed by means of a lock. This stretch of river has been called Robber's Roost because in early times the Indians annoyed every exploring party that tried to pass. From the Cascades to the Great or Celilo Falls the scenery is of superlative degree, for the river has eaten its way by means of rapids, falls and whirlpools through the blackest of basalt. The Great Falls are a drop of forty feet through the dark, sombre looking lava and the water falls as if for a thousand miles above it had been nerving itself for the ordeal. At the Dalles the river begins to compress into a narrow channel.

An interesting phase of the Columbia River is the old Indian burial grounds. Many of these were situated on islands near the Great Falls and years ago the graves contained many pieces of pottery and Indian ornaments. Another curious Indian cemetery existed for years on the bank of the river. Time and progress of civilization have changed this old spot, but early explorers found vaults over the doors of which were painted colored totems in the form of animals. Many kettles, baskets and medicine bags have been taken from these graves and remains of skulls show that this tribe had some method of flattening the skull similar to that employed by the Cliff dwellers.

A trip can be taken up the navigable Upper Columbia and back by boat in one day, or the journey can be made both by boat and rail. Either way one enjoys unconventional nature, holding forth in wild, riotous, and stormy moods. No softening hand has changed the savage cliffs, changeful waters, dangerous falls and dainty cataracts. The tremendous intensity of this river looks as if it might last forever, no matter how much commerce may pass over its waters. The bar at its mouth was long ago robbed of its terrors and the lighthouses throw their gleams across this stretch which once was considered so dangerous.

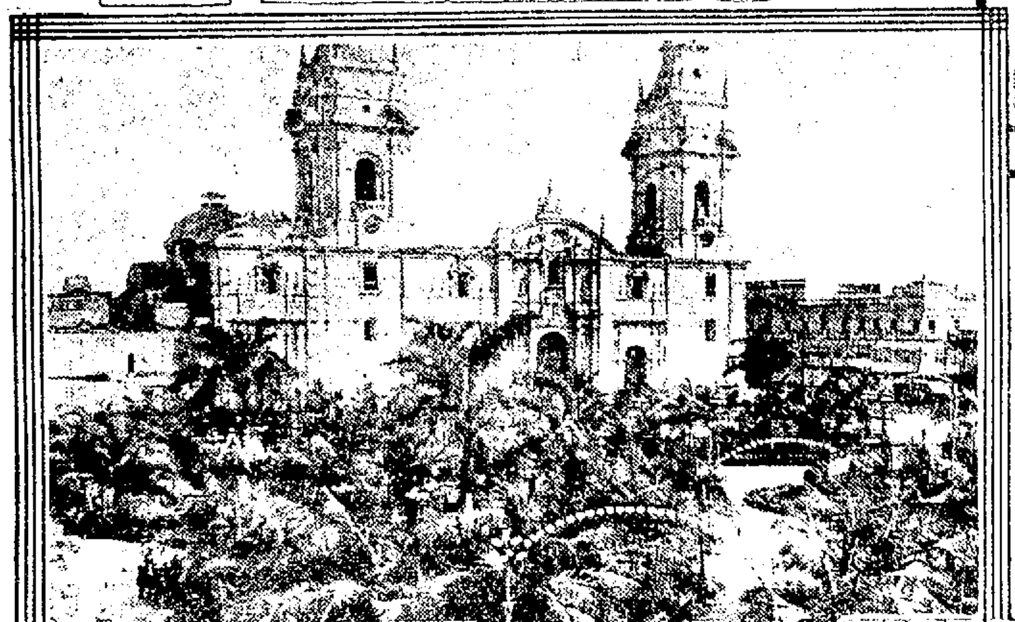

The salmon fishers with their nets and fish wheels now ply their trade along the banks near which Lewis and Clark once made a salt camp. It is an interesting business—this salmon catching, but that is another story. The mighty Columbia is first and always a scenic wonder. Once it was the storm center in Anglo-American politics on account of indecision regarding the international boundary. Today, it is a stream rich in historic associations and vast in economic resources. If the now dangerous parts can be made safe, there seems little limitation in the part it will play in the scheme of inland waterways.

RICE PAPER WITHOUT RICE.

THE rice paper of China has no rice in its composition. This curiously brittle, pure white material used for the marvelous drawings of the Chinese artists is manufactured from the pith of a tree peculiar to Formosa. The first paper was not made of raw cotton, nor was it made by the Chinese. Rag paper was made in Arabia more than ten centuries ago, and the crusaders brought the industry to Europe, where the first paper manufactory was established in the last years of the thirteenth century.

MUCH of romance attaches to South America, growing [illegible] of the history of its [illegible] story [illegible] of white [illegible] In [illegible] Peru is richer than any other [illegible] of the continent. [illegible] was [illegible] dynasty founded [illegible] Son of the Sun [illegible] was the stage [illegible] New World [illegible] Spaniard [illegible]

A narrow strip of [illegible] coast stretches for [illegible] between [illegible] At the back of [illegible] the purple wall of the Andes [illegible] seem to pierce the [illegible] at the greatest height [illegible] this inhospitable [illegible] of which rain [illegible] occurrence.

Here one experiences greater changes of climate and environment in going three miles vertically than in going three thousand miles latitudinally. The ascent from the hot, barren littoral, is up through fertile foothills, to beautiful mountain valleys, filled with luxuriant vegetation and picturesque [illegible], sites of cities and [illegible] hamlets. Thence up to [illegible] the belt of perpetual snow. On the other side, again, rich, [illegible] and grassy plains, and beyond these the Montana, the [illegible] of the Amazon. [illegible] The Department [illegible] one of the richest [illegible] in the world, where the [illegible] in great [illegible] along the [illegible] of the Andes at elevations of [illegible] feet [illegible] the great [illegible] of [illegible] excavations in the [illegible] from which the Incas, and [illegible] taskmasters, the Spaniards, mined the precious metal. [illegible] is probable that vast quantities of [illegible] gold lie hidden under the ground and beneath the waters of the lakes. More than one Spanish writer has expressed the belief that if the treasure buried by the Indians could be recovered, it would be found that all that the Spaniards obtained was little in comparison.

Silver is present in Peru in as wide an area as gold, and perhaps in larger quantities. The silver field in the Department of Junin has yielded according to government reports, upwards of $250,000,000 in the past century.

The altitude of its cities is one of the many peculiar conditions in Peru. Callao, the port, is at sea-level. Lima is reached from it by a half hour's electric car ride, entailing only a slight ascent. Most of the other important cities are at elevations of 8,000 feet or over, Cuzco at 11,440, Huancavelica 12,530, Huaraz, 10,000 and so on.

The situations of these highland cities, in their settings of mountain scenery are singularly beautiful. They suffer, however, from the disadvantages of semi-isolation and slow, as well as difficult, inter-communication. Huaraz is a typical illustration. It stands in a valley 100 miles in length and from two to five miles in breadth. On either side the cordilleras raise their [illegible] heads. The entrance to the valley from the coast is by a pass 13,[illegible] feet above sea-level and the exit [illegible] to the east through another at [illegible] feet elevation. A river, which rises in one of the remarkable mountain lakes of Peru, flows through the valley and waters a considerable cultivated area.

The city is built of stone, after the usual Spanish-American style, with a central plaza, a cathedral, and a few public buildings. Through the valley are dotted here and there a number of smaller towns and pueblos, bringing its total population up to about 10,000, the greater part of whom are Cholo Indians. Half the valley's inhabitants live in Huaraz. [illegible] the outlying villages are engaged in agriculture. Those of the city gain a living by mining and commerce with the exterior. The means of communication with the coast and [illegible] eastern slope is over difficult mountain paths, and burdens are carried by mules and llamas.

In these [illegible] valleys great herds of alpacas, vicuñas, and llamas are pastured. The [illegible] named are as common [illegible] dogs in the mofussil [illegible] the days of the Incas the llama was the sole beast of burden and to this day it is the surest and most useful in the mountain regions.

Lima is an attractive city architecturally, but its location on the coast makes it uncomfortably hot during the greater part of the year, although the climate is unusually healthy. It is distinctly a cosmopolitan city. Italians, Germans, French, Austrians, Chinamen and British are found there in considerable numbers, and among them a sprinkling of Americans, who make up for their lack of numbers by the importance of the interests which they represent.

The Peruvian of the capital is much the same as the better class of Latin-Americans elsewhere — a dignified, genial, cultured, and hospitable gentleman. The Peruvians are justly proud of the fact that Lima contains the oldest university in the New World and one of the finest libraries of Spanish literature. The influence of this seat of learning is easily traceable in the native residents of the city.

Among the better class of the interior towns, mestizos, or persons with a mixture of Indian blood, are in the majority. They are generally fairly well educated, intelligent, and eager for knowledge of the outer world. However they display a marked lack of refinement and want of the appreciation of the comforts of life. Even when the ability to do otherwise exists, they commonly live in a primitive manner and without regard to cleanliness and hygiene. Indeed, were it not for the extreme healthfulness of the mountain climate the Andean cities would be centres of disease. Despite their courtesy and hospitality, this distaste for water makes the Peruvian gentleman of the interior unattractive to Anglo-Saxons.

The Cholo Indians are a simple, docile people, although semi-savage in the remoter districts. They have the usual characteristics of mountaineers, poetical temperament, tinged with melancholy and tainted with superstition. They are extremely hardy and courageous. A Cholo will make long and fatiguing journeys, abstaining altogether from food for days at a time, sustained almost solely by the cocoa leaves, which are chewed in the same manner as the Kaffirs of South Africa eat the kola nut under similar circumstances.

Honesty is among the many admirable traits of the Cholo. He is a good husband and father, and unlike most Indians, does not impose the heaviest burdens on his women.

Unfortunately the taste for alcohol has taken a strong hold on these people, and drunkenness is prevalent among men and women.

Use of Dollar Bills.

IN some of the Western communities of the United States there is a decided supersition against dollar bills, as there is a superstition against two-dollar bills in the East. The World's Fair at St. Louis helped in popularizing the small bills in the Middle West, but silver dollars are still used to a great extent. It has been only within the past two or three years that there has been much of a call for bills of small denomination in the Middle West.

In Washington, D. C., silver dollars are quite rare, the bills doing the greater portion of the circulating. The government has to search the world over for the ingredients of bills. Much of the paper fibre is linen rag from the Orient. The silk comes from Italy and China. The blue ink is made from German or Canadian cobalt. The black ink is made from Niagara Falls acetylene gas smoke, and most of the green ink has green mixed in white zinc sulphite made in Germany. When the Treasury seal is printed in red the color comes from Central America.

The average number of Alpine fatalities during the past ten years has been one hundred per year.

Queer Medicines.

ALL kinds of animal products are employed in the manufacture of medicines in this countries. One of these medicines is pepsin, which is extracted from the stomach of a hog. From the glands of the musk deer is extracted a typhoid fever remedy; from the whale comes numerous ointments and a medicine is taken from the liver of the cod fish. Bees furnish a wax that is used very extensively as a remedy. In England there is a tincture made from the wood ants, and it is claimed to be valuable as a cure for rheumatism and gout. The lady-bug, prepared in a certain manner, according to the homeopaths, is a cure for the worst kind of toothache.

Nearly every animal known is used in some form or other in the manufacture of a medicine, and insects also play their part. In the old days herbs were used to a great extent, especially by the home doctors, but this class of treatment has almost gone and new fields are being searched.
